Says French Leader's Policies Re-Awakening Perilous Rivalries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of State George W. Ball says the "self-centered" policies of French President Charles de Gaulle may return Europe to a dangerous system of national rivalries that could once more lead to world war.

In a speech Friday night before the American Society of International Law, Ball accused de Gaulle of trying to make France a first-class power while keeping its European neighbors in an inferior role.

"This is a desire on the part of the French government to carve out a special place for itself which means a great reduction in the kind of cooperative effort which has been going forward in Europe and within the Atlantic world," Ball explained in a later CBS television interview.

National Rivalries
"I think this can only weaken the West and create problems where we may have, again, old national rivalries reasserting themselves and a beginning of

American Jet Downs Another MIG Fighter

North Vietnamese Plane Destroyed by Sidewinder Missile

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. Air Force jet shot down a Communist MIG17 over north Viet Nam today, bringing to three the number of enemy jets downed in the past two days.

A U.S. spokesman said an F4C Phantom shot the MIG out of the sky with an air-to-air Sidewinder missile when four of the Red jets attacked a flight of Phantoms with cannon fire 100 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The plane's crew consisted of Capt. Lawrence H. Goldberg, 33, of Duluth, Minn., and 1st Lt. Gerald D. Hardgrave, 28, of Jackson, Tenn., the spokesman said.

Another F4C Phantom shot down a MIG with a missile Friday and a second MIG crashed while trying to escape during the same encounter.

Tama Pilot
The Air Force said the flier who fired the missile was Capt. William D. Dowell, 34, of Tampa, Fla. The other crew member in his plane was 1st Lt. Herbert E. Rossard, 25, of Oklahoma City, Okla.

The Phantom which forced the other MIG to crash was piloted by Capt. Larry R. Keith, 30, of Peoria, Ill. Flying with him was 1st Lt. Robert A. Bleakley, 26, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

U.S. officials said the dogfight took place in "MIG Alley," 55 miles northwest of Hanoi.

They did not give the number of planes involved but said the Phantoms were flying cover for Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs when they were challenged by the Communist planes. The F105s attacked ground targets in the area.

The Soviet news agency Tass, in a dispatch from Hanoi, said seven American planes were brought down in the fighting Friday. The U.S. spokesman made no mention of U.S. losses.

The kills Friday were the 9th president by name.

Pentagon Opposes War Declaration Idea

Fear Action Might Deter Peace Efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rejecting the idea of a specific American declaration of war against North Viet Nam, a Pentagon report says such a declaration would reduce U.S. flexibility in seeking a solution to the conflict.

"On balance, a declaration of war would significantly reduce the flexibility of the United States to seek a solution among extremely complex factors, and reduce the chances that our adversary will take a reasoned approach to a solution," the report explains.

Drafted for the Senate Armed Services Committee, it says a war declaration also would put in question what he termed the continued validity of President Johnson's call for a peaceful settlement of the struggle in South Viet Nam.

No Legal Requirement
There is nothing in modern international law requiring a nation to declare war before waging hostilities, it added.

It was submitted by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in response to questions raised at a Feb. 24 hearing. The paper, now made public by the committee, presumably represents the over-all administration position on the question of a declared war in Viet Nam.

There has been some contention in and out of Congress that the United States is committed illegally in Viet Nam in the absence of a declaration of war.

Neither the U.S. Constitution, the guidelines of international law nor the issue of prisoner treatment requires a formal declaration of war, the Defense Department paper said.

Psychological Element
"To declare war would add a new psychological element to the international situation, since in this century, declarations of war have come to imply dedication to the total destruction of the enemy," the report said. "It would increase the danger of misunderstanding of our true objectives in the conflict by the various Communist states, and increase the chances of their expanded involvement in it."

"The only relevant legal question is whether the use of force is justified," the Pentagon reply added. "Examples of hostilities begun without prior declaration of war abound in recent history."

Furthermore, the paper said.

Stennis Calls for Stepped-Up Air Attacks in North

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis said it is an "open secret" today that the Joint Chiefs of Staff favor intensifying U.S. air strikes against North Viet Nam.

In a speech prepared for the Mississippi Broadcasters Association, the Mississippi Democrat — who heads the Senate Armed Services Preparedness Subcommittee, called anew for an all-out assault on oil, power and arms plants in the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial areas of North Viet Nam.

Stennis said the air war "has not achieved and, under current and restrictive ground rules, will not achieve its objective of substantially halting or curtailing the flow of men, materials and supplies from North to South Viet Nam."

'Happening' at Milwaukee Art Center

Scrub-a-Dub-Dub, Two Nudes in a Tub

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two nudes in two tubs might be abstract art to some persons but when it's happening at a "happening" Milwaukee police want to know about it.

"How come we weren't notified?" a police captain demanded Friday after a "happening" was held Thursday night at Milwaukee's modern Memorial Center.

Tracy Atkinson, Milwaukee Art Center director, explained that "a happening is a kind of abstract art in which the artist is a performer with his canvas."

This particular happening, for which about 250 persons paid a dollar to see, featured two nudes, a man and a woman, who bathed by candlelight in two beer coolers.

"Let's see a picture," said Capt. Robert Ziernik, head of the police vice squad. "I certainly would present it to the district attorney."

The happening also featured motorcyclist, dancers, actors, a grave digger and a fire fighter—all were artists performing off canvas.

Seventeen-year-old Julie Tennessen of Greenfield said she toured the show, which was held deep in the Center's sub basement where nobody but a plumber would normally go.

Different Views
"The nudes were just washing themselves," said Atkinson.

Miss Tennessen differed. "The girl got up and walked around in her tub," she said.

The man just sat there, scrubbing."

Miss Tennessen said: "People in the audience turned spotlights on the tubs. You could see fine."

The art center's first happening was staged by 12 art teachers and graduate students from the University of Wisconsin.

Atkinson said the bathers were professional models.

"The motorcycles were much more sensational, at least to me," said Atkinson. "They did turn the air a little blue."

An estimated 1,500 to 3,000 trucks are operating there, it was learned today, in an effort which carries Highway 15 to get the tons of goods the through the mountains to the so-called Ho Chi Minh Trail in Viet Nam before the rains Laos.

Pass Hit Again
Last Wednesday B52 bombers hit the pass again, but a spokesman said the raid was only camouflage by building bamboo trellises and lacing them with branches to hide the roads from prowling U.S. aircraft.

Increased Strength
It was learned that this build-up is part of a decision by Hanoi to increase the number of main-force units in South Viet Nam.

The military objective of North Viet Nam is to push tons of materiel South during the dry season and continue the infiltration of men by foot after the rains begin in mid-May.

The main motor route for infiltration from North Viet Nam through Laos is the Mu Gia Pass area along the Laos border. The secondary route is the Na Pe Pass just to the north of Mu Gia.

The Mu Gia Pass, 65 miles south of the North Vietnamese city of Vinh, has been the site of

10 Railroads Ask Damages From Unions

Allege They Were Caused by 4-Day Strike During May

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten railroads have sued the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen for damages they allege were caused by the union's four-day strike that started March 31.

The railroads, which filed suit Friday in U.S. District Court, also asked the court to assess contempt of court fines of $50,000 against the union and $5,000 against its president, H. E. Gilbert.

The carriers said they had not yet determined the total amount of damages. They originally estimated the strike cost them $5 million daily and that the striking firemen lost $320,000 a day in wages.

The railroads are the Pennsylvania, Boston and Maine, Grand Trunk Western, Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific, Illinois Central, Central of Georgia, Seaboard Air Lines, Spokane International and the Texas and Pacific.

In Chicago Friday, Gilbert refused to comment on the matter until he had seen a copy of the suit.

But he did say employee-employer relations now are at their lowest point since he became affiliated with the union in 1925, adding that "what they are doing won't improve the . . . relationship much."

The strike of 8,000 firemen on railroads serving 38 states ended shortly before midnight April 3 under heavy pressure from the federal court here and the Johnson administration.

The court pressure included a ruling by Judge Alexander Holtzoff that the strike, if continued beyond a set deadline, would cost the union $25,000 a day. Holtzoff first had entertained, then lifted a threat of fines of $510,000 a day against the union.

Farm Product Prices Show Another Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has reported a drop in farm product prices for the second straight month that should result in lower consumer food prices.

The department said Friday that farm prices dropped two per cent during the month ended April 15. This came on top of a decline of one-third of one per cent during the month ended March 15.

Most of the decline during the two-month period came in hogs. Hog prices had climbed to unusually high winter levels because of a reduction in production last year.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman had predicted recently that farm prices would drop 6 to 10 per cent by the end of 1966.

April brought declines in prices of beef cattle, wheat, barley, hay, peanuts, dry beans, strawberries, calves, sheep, lambs, butterfat, milk, chickens and eggs.

Commodities which increased included corn, cotton, soybeans, potatoes, sweet potatoes, apples, pears, citrus fruits, some commercial vegetables and wool.

Georgia May Sue Wisconsin In High Court

Gov. Sanders Says Legal Action Being Considered

ATLANTA (AP)—Gov. Carl E. Sanders has confirmed that Georgia is considering taking its case in the Milwaukee-Atlanta dispute over the Braves directly to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Informed sources said Friday that Georgia is considering filing suit directly in the high court against Wisconsin to expedite a final decision on whether the National League baseball team should play in Milwaukee or Atlanta.

The sources said Georgia will contend in the suit, if it is filed, that Wisconsin is violating the federal antitrust laws in its actions to have the Braves returned there or the league ordered to expand to give Milwaukee another team.

"Certain people have discussed such a suit with me in recent days," Sanders said. "I want to emphasize that no decision has been reached on whether we should proceed."

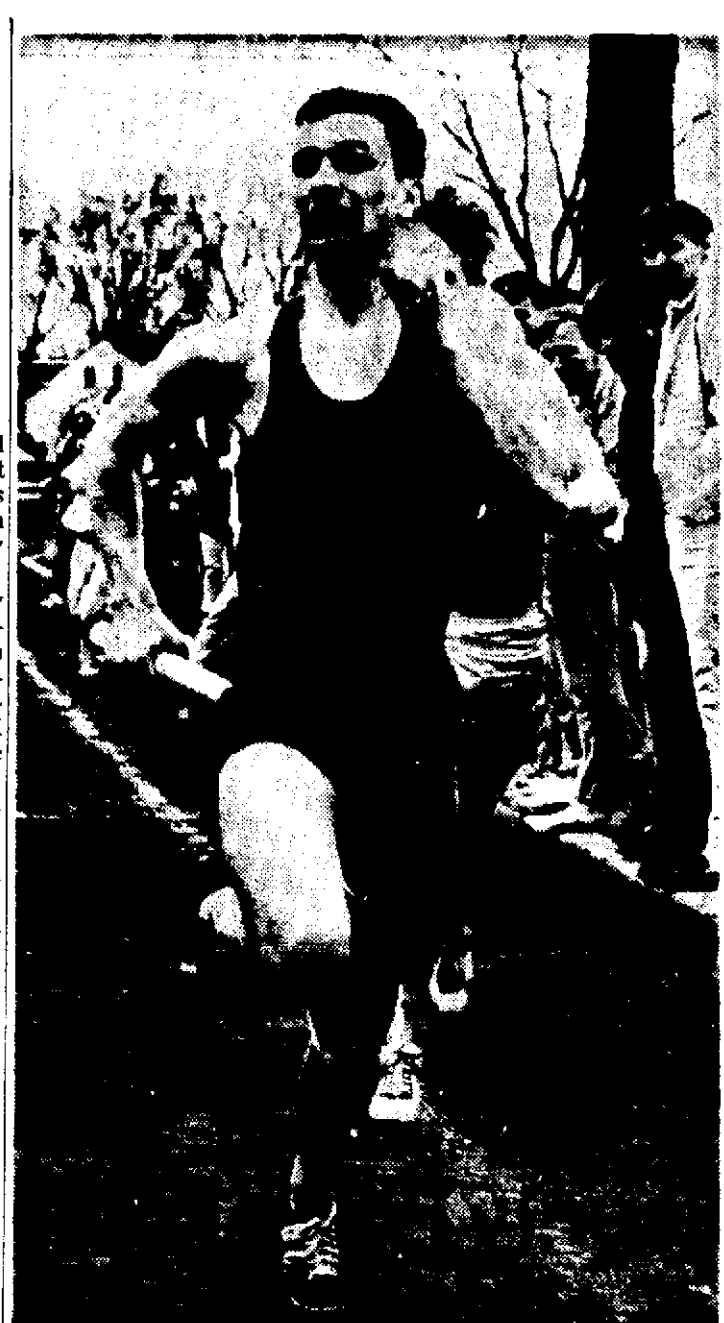

Attends Conference

"I would say that the matter at this time is in a state of consideration only," Sanders added. "After all angles are discussed and thoroughly explored from a legal standpoint, a decision would be made by the attorney general of Georgia."

Att. Gen. Arthur K. Bolton declined comment.

Sources said Bolton attended a conference lasting several

Manitowoc Wins Final Event to Edge AHS Track Team, 61 to 57

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

An aroused Appleton High school track team indicated here Friday that it has no intention of surrendering its Fox River Valley Conference outdoor laurels by default.

Bouncing back from a slow 1966 start, the Terrors forced heavily-favored Manitowoc to come from behind on the last leg of the final event — the 880-yard relay — in order to eke out a 61-57 dual-meet win.

The Terrors came that close to topping the FRVC indoor champion Ships despite going to the post without their injured hurdling ace, Ed Olson, and despite getting only limited duty out of sprinter Gary Vivoda, who has been slowed by an injury.

Keith Kohlman-coached AHS might still have sunk the Ships if it hadn't been for a faulty baton exchange in the final relay.

Lead By One

The Terrors, who had led continuously from the fifth event on, came to the climactic 880-yard relay with the narrowest of advantages, 57-56. The two teams were even after the first quarter of the meet-deciding race. A slow baton pass between Dale Schabo and Jon Griffith cost AHS valuable time, and at the mid-point of the race, Al Novak had given the Ships a 3-stride lead.

Nowell Closes In

Appleton's Dave Nowell ran a strong third leg and closed in on Jim Hammen to reduce the Manitowoc lead to a scant yard at the final exchange.

AHS anchor-man Ron Brinkman bolted into the lead almost immediately after the pass. He stayed ahead until the final turn when Manty's Tom Gass turned on the "gas." The Ship sophomore had already run winning 100- and 220-yard races, but he had enough left to edge Brinkman in the stretch.

The half-mile relay triumph gave Manty its ninth event victory — to only five for AHS — but the Terrors "slammed" the pole vault and piled up a heavy quota of seconds and thirds.

Tight finishes were the order of the day. Narrow victories, other than the Ships' final relay success, were scored by Manty's Mike Cisler over AHS' John Vogt in the high hurdles; by Gass over Brinkman in the "century"; by Gass over AHS' Nowell in the 220; and by Appleton in the mile relay.

Cisler, Gass and Gretz were Manitowoc standouts, corraling seven blue ribbons among them. Triple champion Cisler dominated both hurdles events and the long jump. Gass was the kingpin sprinter, while Gretz took "muscleman" honors.

Sets Field Record

Gretz fired the discus 148 feet, 3 inches and set an AHS field record with a mighty shot put of 56 feet, 8 inches. He broke the mark of 54 feet, 6 1/2 inches

Angels Deal Foxes First '66 Loss in Rain-Curtailed Tilt

Each Team Gets Only 4 Hits; Game Set Tonight in Clinton

DAVENPORT, Ia. — Quad Cities handed the Fox Cities their first Midwest League loss of the season here Friday night.

The Angels scored a rain-shortened (7-inning) 6-4 victory to snap the Foxes' streak at three wins. Each team managed only four hits, but a total of eight pitchers were called to the mound.

The Foxes did all their scoring in the second inning as six walks enabled them to overcome, temporarily, a 3-0 Angel lead. In the second, Doug Adams, Raul Gonzales and Bob Von Eps walked to load the bases.

Efrain Contreras replaced Jerry Davey on the hill and struck out pitcher Steve Gutierrez. However, he then forced in three runs with successive walks to Tom Cottrell, Gus Sposito and Al Kristowski. The latter finished "Deacon" Jones' turn at bat after he had been banished from the game for protesting a strike call.

Bill Melton's sacrifice fly scored the Foxes' fourth run. Quad Cities regained the lead with two runs in its half of the second. A walk, a hit batsman and an error by Von Eps filled the bases. A sacrifice fly tied the score. Von Eps' wild throw on a steal allowed the go-ahead run to score.

The Angels' 3-run first inning was highlighted by Mark Schultz' 2-run single.

The Foxes filled the bases in the sixth, but Eric Speilman struck out Adams to quell the uprising.

Tonight, the Foxes are scheduled to play at Clinton.

Chisox Halt Tribe Victory Streak, 4-1

Orioles Trip Tigers, Tie For AL Lead

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Robinson has replaced George Strickland as the No. 1 driver in the American League.

Strickland drove Manager Birdie Tebbetts to and from the ballpark during Cleveland's 10-game unbeaten streak, but the Chicago White Sox ended the streak by defeating the Indians 4-1 Friday night.

Robinson, meanwhile, steered Baltimore to its eighth straight victory, driving in the runs with a triple and a home run in the Orioles' 8-1 victory over Detroit.

Using Strickland, and Indian coach, as a chauffeur was part of the routine Tebbetts refused to change as long as the Indians were winning. He also passed up barber shops and ate breakfast at the same table in the same hotel with the same waitress serving him.

Strickland earned the transportation job after driving Tebbetts back to his hotel following the Indians' opening game victory. And every time they drove to the hotel they made an illegal turn.

Nothing Illegal

There's nothing illegal about Robinson, even though the other AL teams would like to think so.

His two hits against the Tigers raised his average to .474, and he maintained his streak of having scored in every game by increasing that total to 15. He also has five homers and 10 runs batted in.

"He's been doing a whale of a job for us," Manager Hank Bauer said. Of his winter acquisition from Cincinnati, "The biggest thing is he's taken a lot of pressure off some of the players, and they are hitting better because of it."

With the help of Robinson's bat, the Orioles pulled even with the Indians at 10 victories in 11 games, the best records in the majors.

The only other scheduled AL game—Minnesota at Washington—was rained out.

Gary Peters and Bob Locker scattered eight hits in Chicago's victory over Cleveland. Peters hit a home run before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh inning. The pinch hitter, Danny Cater, drove in a run with a sacrifice fly.

Robinson's two-run triple drove Detroit starter Bill Monbouquette from the mound and brought Terry Fox on. Boog Powell then climaxed the seven-run outburst with a two-run homer. Wally Bunker gave up 10 hits, but the Tigers scored only on Don Wert's homer in the fifth.

Jim Bunning Stops Cubs

third inning. The damage was done by Lou Brock, Alex Johnson, Curt Flood, Tim McCarver, Charley Smith and George Kerner. Johnson also hit a ninth inning homer.

The Astros pulled into a tie with the Braves in the ninth inning when pinch hitter Ron Brand singled following walks to John Bateman and Joe Morgan. Aaron turned it around again with one swing in the bottom of the ninth, hitting a two-out shot over the left field fence.

Dodger starter Claude Osteen had the Reds shut out on two hits and led 2-0 on Lou Johnson's homer when Cincinnati scored twice in the ninth on a walk and singles by Vada Pinson and Tony Perez. The Dodgers then won it in their half on a double by Nate Oliver, walks to Jim Gilliam and Wes Parker and Ron Fairly's two-out single.

The Mets broke a 1-1 tie with four runs in the 11th as Chuck Hiller and Roy McMillan each collected key singles. Hiller's broke a 1-1 tie and McMillan's drove in two runs. The other run crossed on a wild pitch by Al McBean. The Pirates, shut out for six innings by Rob Gardner, had tied the score on a single by Jim Pagliaroni and Bob Bailey's double.

Jim Bunning allowed nine hits but went the distance for the Phillies, running his scoreless inning streak to 20 before Adolfo Phillips supplied the Cubs' run with a homer in the seventh. Richie Allen drove in one run and scored another, before injuring his right arm stealing second base.

State's Role In Pollution Fight Defended

Knowles Attacks
Federal Official
For His Remarks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles has come to the defense of Wisconsin as a national leader in the fight against pollution with a counter-attack on the state and its leadership.

Knowles' comments were contained in letters sent to several parties, including President Johnson, it was learned Friday. In the letters, dated April 21, Wisconsin's chief executive said he was "concerned" that the chief enforcement officer of the federal water pollution control administration made the critical comments in a speech at Madison.

The governor said the officer, Murray Stein, stated that "Wisconsin is losing its position as a national leader in water pollution control and that serious pollution was being permitted to spread through the state due to a lack of state leadership."

Directing Cleanup

The governor also said Stein further stated that the federal government desired to step in and direct a cleanup with respect to certain areas of the state, but that it could not because he (Knowles) has failed to request the help of the federal government.

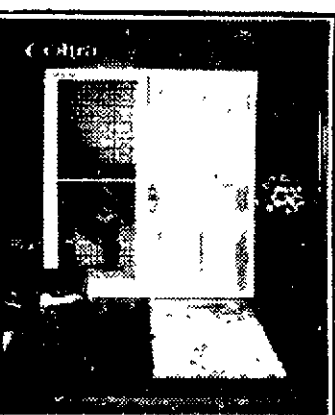

Knowles said Stein's criticism was made "without any prior consultation concerning the state's pollution problems" with him or his water experts. He said, "The facts show such charges by a responsible federal official to be unwarranted."

The governor, in answer to the charges, said "More positive steps toward the conservation of Wisconsin's water resources have been taken during the last year than in any comparable period on record."

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Saturday, April 30, the 120th day of 1966. There are 245 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1789, George Washington was inaugurated as the first president of the United States.

On this date
In 1796, Congress created the Department of the Navy.

In 1803, the Louisiana Territory was purchased from France for $15 million.

In 1939, the New York World's Fair was opened by President Franklin Roosevelt; the ceremony also inaugurated public television service.

Suicides
In 1945, Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun committed suicide in Berlin.

Ten years ago — Former Vice President Alben Barkley died of a heart attack while addressing a student political convention at Washington and Lee University.

Five years ago — It was announced that a conference of Congolese political leaders had approved an agreement with the United Nations for a reorganization of the Congo army and the expulsion of certain foreign advisers.

One year ago — President Johnson urged that a truce be made effective in the rebellion in the Dominican Republic.

Inductee Lists Can be Public

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service System says lists of registrants ordered for induction can be made public at the discretion of state directors and local draft boards.

The Associated Press Managing Editors Association had asked that names of inductees be released to newspapers. The request was made to Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, by Hu Blunk of the Wenatchee (Wash.) Daily World.

Blunk, chairman of the APME Freedom of Information Committee, told Hershey that many newspapers would like to recognize youths about to go into service for their country. But he wrote that the Washington state draft director said he was barred from making the names public on orders from Hershey's office.

Robert Reynolds, UW History Teacher, Dies

MADISON (AP) — Robert L. Reynolds Sr., 64, a University of Wisconsin professor of medieval and economic history since 1931, died Friday in a Madison hospital after a long illness.

Delavan Sale May Set Record

5-Cent Circus Stamp To be Issued Monday

DELAVAN (AP) — Wisconsin's kinship with the American circus will be recognized officially Monday when the special circus commemorative five-cent stamp goes on sale at the Delavan Post Office.

The first stamp will be sold to Rep. Lynn Stalbaum, D-Wis., in whose congressional district the festivities will take place. He will buy it from Wisconsin-born movie actor and television personality Don Ameche.

The locale is singularly appropriate since Wisconsin has long proclaimed itself the "Mother of Circuses." More than 100 shows have originated in the Badger state, among them the "Big One" of the circus world — Ringling Bros. & Barnum and Bailey, founded in nearby Baraboo.

Circus World Museum
In this state, too, is located (also at Baraboo) the famed Circus World Museum with its unmatched collection of circus wagons and star spangled trappings of the sawdust rings.

A two-day program will mark the event, possibly drawing as many as 20,000 persons to the little southern Wisconsin city from which 27 circuses operated between 1847 and 1892. There will be a cemetery tour of burial lots of circus people Sunday morning, a parade at 1 p.m. followed by a circus performance at the Delavan-Darien high school at which Ameche will be master of ceremonies.

Richard J. Murphy, assistant postmaster general, will be the government official representative.

The man instrumental in getting the stamp for Delavan is Postmaster W. Gordon Yaden, a longtime ardent circus fan.

Yaden is the busiest man in this Lake Delavan resort town of 4,846 population.

Busy Postmaster
The postmaster has the task of organizing the issuing of the stamps as well as planning the local celebration.

Requests for first day covers have been pouring in by the thousands. The total might reach 900,000 which postal authorities say would top the record of 800,000 requests set last year for the physical fitness stamp.

Persons requesting first day covers mail a self addressed envelope to Delavan. The Post Office affixes the stamp, cancels it and mails it back.

Yaden has had 45 extra employees opening and sorting the requests. He has 1.5 million circus stamps on hand and won't run out. Another 115 million could be made available if needed.

Plenty of Competition
Delavan had plenty of competition before winning the right to issue the stamp. The most determined opposition came from Somers, N.Y., and Bridgeport, Conn.

Delavan calls itself "the 19th Century Circus Capital of the Nation" and bases its claim on the fact that 26 circuses were quartered in the area in the 47-year span between 1847 and 1894. More than 80 members of the community's circus colony are buried here. And the original P. T. Barnum circus was organized in Delavan in 1871 by William C. Coup.

Milwaukee Pair Gets 20-Year Sentence for Third Degree Murder

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two Milwaukee men were sentenced to 20 years in the state reformatory at Green Bay after they were found guilty Friday of third degree murder in the shotgun slaying of a liquor store operator.

The two men sentenced in the slaying last Sept. 29 were Terry L. Bryzcki, 27, and Onald K. Wassenaar, 31.

Circuit Judge Carl Daley heard the case without a jury. The pair had been charged with first degree murder but Judge Daley found them guilty of the lesser charge, saying the state had not proved the first degree charge.

Police said the two men killed Charles Kahn, 61, during an attempted holdup of his liquor store on Milwaukee's East side.

To Your Good Health

Doctor Says Diet Pills Can Have Certain Risks

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: What effect do diet pills have on the body? My doctor has prescribed them for about two years, off and on.

Dr. Molner

Lately I have had headaches. I feel nervous at times and my hands shake. I am only 23. — Miss K.J.R.

As I've said many times before, "diet pills" have certain risks and side effects; and should never be taken except under a doctor's supervision.

I add a second rule: Remember that it is up to you to notify your doctor if the pills bother you.

The mere fact that he has prescribed pills does not automatically mean that he will know if or when they begin to bother you. No two patients are exactly alike, and they won't respond identically.

Hence reducing pills still have to be used with reasonable caution.

"Nerves" and the various manifestations of nervousness are the foremost problem. The result may be jitters, restlessness, difficulty in sleeping, or session of a sturgeon taken out of season, forfeited $90 bonds doubt that headaches would be a direct result, but they can very easily be a secondary one, since jitters mean tension, and tension headaches are very common.

Therefore I urge that all folks using diet pills to keep their doctor informed. If you encounter excessive nervousness or other odd symptoms, notify him. That is the purpose in using these medications under your doctor's supervision. He has to know how you react to them.

Dear Dr. Molner: My elderly brother was told by his doctor to avoid salt in order to eliminate water from his tissues. Water has disappeared except some in his ankles. Now a friend says that not eating salt can cause the ankles to swell again. Is this true? — Mrs. C. L.

First of all, your brother has seen some good results from avoiding salt, even though it has not removed all water from the tissues. That ought to be proof enough, and he should not be misled by a know-it-all who is trying to give him some bad advice. I wonder if these busybodies ever stop to think how much harm they can do.

Salt is a combination of sodium and chlorine. Sodium tends to cling strongly to water. Hence salt makes more water accumulate in the body. A person with a vigorous heart, good circulation and healthy kidneys can throw off the excess; a person with illnesses cannot. That's why your brother needs a low-salt diet. The ankles frequently remain swollen when other tissues are not.

Attention all women! For the pamphlet, "The Pre-Menstrual Blues," write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover printing and handling. This pamphlet may help you! (Copyright, 1966)

Race Disagrees With Freeman On Increasing Cheese Imports

OSHKOSH — A great difference actually exists between the artificially supported dairy low milk prices and the actual condition of the market, Rep. John A. Race, Sixth District Democratic congressman, told the U.S. Tariff Commission Thursday as he opposed increased quotas for cheddar cheese importation.

Race said the question before the commission is whether circumstances exist which would justify an increase in the existing quotas for cheddar cheese from 2,780,000 pounds to eventually 9,565,300 pounds. He said he disagreed with the evaluation of the secretary of agriculture to the president that such circumstances do exist.

Past Surplus
Because of the past cheese surplus, dairy farm prices have remained low and have been artificially supported through a series of dairy support programs, he said.

Our dairy farmers have been promised by at least three administrations (Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson) that these price supports were temporary in nature to insure a minimum for milk prices and that dairy farm income would reach an equitable level when supply and demand was reflected in the market place.

Rep. Race said that low dairy prices would seem to have brought about a balance between supply and demand. He cited a report by the House Appropriations Committee issued April 22 to the effect that milk production decreases each year, milk production decreases accordingly," he said.

No Purchases
The congressman pointed out to the tariff commission that the Commodity Credit Corp. has not been forced to purchase any surplus cheese since October of 1965.

Race also quoted from the House Appropriations Committee report which declared last week that unless we provide "economic incentive to induce young and efficient producers to remain on the farm, food in the United States will be increasingly short supply."

He urged denial of the increase in cheese quotas because the importation of additional cheese will continue to depress the milk prices realized by the dairy farmers and continue to drive them from the farm, resulting, he said, in an eventual shortage of dairy products.

A second reason for the denial would be that the actual market condition of the dairy industry is, as of this day, in such a state that it will eventually eliminate the burden of dairy supports on the taxpayers if supply and demand is not upset through additional importation of cheese.

Race said dairy farmers are presently capable of producing any needed increase of milk to be used in the manufacture of cheese to meet domestic demands. This will not be true if their numbers are depleted even further if unrealistically low milk prices prevail.

Hurdle Cleared

May Vote Planned on Development Agency

Another hurdle was cleared Monday afternoon for the establishment of a county industrial development agency.

Outagamie County Board executive committee members voted unanimously to bring a resolution before the entire board in May seeking approval of the plan that was introduced to them at the April organization meeting.

The executive committee instructed County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Alvin Woehler, county executive secretary, and A. W. Ponath, county corporation counsel, to draft the resolution.

The vote came after executive committee members heard Delmar Drumm, executive secretary of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce explain the mechanics of the program.

Board members were told at the April meeting that a county industrial development agency could be set up under provisions of Wisconsin's recently-enacted Industrial Development Law.

The law would allow the county to set up a corporation that could arrange loans for industrial development at the same borrowing rate that municipalities get from lending agencies.

Board members heard earlier this month that the corporation is set up at no cost to the county with most of the control coming from county board membership.

Mechanics of the proposed corporation will be spelled out in the resolution to be submitted to the board.

Fox Valley Planners Urged To Triple Scope, Activities

Add Staff, Budget for Programs

The Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission was urged Thursday to triple the scope and size of its activities by a St. Louis planning consultant.

Eldridge Lovelace, principal partner of Harland Bartholomew and Associates, told members a major difficulty of the commission is that its work is severely curtailed by a small staff and limited budget.

He recommended a staff of a director, three planners, an economist, a landscape architect, two draftsmen and two secretaries.

The present staff consists of a director, assistant director and a secretary.

Increase Budget
Lovelace also recommended an annual budget of $105,000 to $110,000 to meet the cost of providing the increasing demands for regional planning.

The present budget of the 12-member commission is approximately $35,000.

Lovelace also urged the inclusion of Outagamie, Calumet and Winnebago counties, and the town of Greenville, Kaukauna and Vandenbrook of Outagamie County and Vinland and Clayton of Winnebago in the commission. He said since the towns are in the commission's planning area and undergoing urbanization, their membership should be obtained as soon as possible.

Lovelace said the counties exercise certain powers, particularly in respect to highways, that makes them an important part of any regional planning commission.

No Conflict
He saw no reason for difficulties if Outagamie and Winnebago counties, also members of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission, joined the Fox Valley group.

Citing that the Fox Valley group should be concerned with urban problems and the Wolf with natural resources, conservation and recreation, Lovelace said "there is more than enough work to be done ... to keep each of these commissions busy without any duplication or conflict."

He added "there is no objection to a county belonging to more than one regional planning commission."

Avoid Conflicts
To avoid any conflicts if the counties do join the Fox group, Lovelace recommended the representatives of the two counties serve on a liaison committee to see that the work of both commissions is coordinated.

He said the commission should establish a new method for financing its work. Lovelace recommended that half the commission's budget be raised by contributions from each municipality based on its assessed valuation, the other 50 per cent by equal contribution from all 12 member municipalities.

At present, all funds are raised by assessments based on assessed valuation.

Other recommendations made by Lovelace, who had been hired by the commission to review and analyze the commission's work after its first 10 years included:

Other Proposals
—Revision and updating of the regional plan and the concurrent integral preparation of a comprehensive transportation plan for the area.

—The commission's staff should have a regular schedule of meetings with all of the individual constituent members at least once every other month.

—The commission should have a full-time staff member engaged in economic research and promotional endeavors in order to assist in the economic development of the area.

—Additional efforts to promote understanding and support of the commission's programs.

Lovelace noted the public appears to be confused by the various levels of planning activities that have been established.

Wood Memorial Award
Donald Colburn, Neenah, vice chairman of the commission, received the Charles W. Wood memorial award for his contributions to regional planning.

Colburn helped fund the group and served as chairman for one year.

The commission re-elected Ralph Risley, chairman; Colburn, vice chairman, and Arthur Vanderheiden, treasurer.

Approximately 100 persons attended the 10th anniversary meeting at the Darby Club.

Member municipalities are the cities of Appleton, Kaukauna, Neenah and Menasha, the Towns of Grand Chute, Little Chute, Buchanan, Neenah, Menasha, and Harrison, and the villages of Combined Locks and Kimberly.

Leisure, Not Bomb, Threat To Civilization

Minister Finds Ways To Make Religion More Relevant Force

By DON MCKEE

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP) — Leisure, not the nuclear bomb, probably represents the greatest threat to American civilization and it is up to the church to provide a counterforce, the youthful Presbyterian minister says.

He spoke quietly, thoughtfully. "No great civilization had leisure time even in small amount and survived," he said. "This changes the orientation of everybody in our society. We now learn how to make a living. This leisure will force us to learn how to make a life."

Relevant Religion

The voice belonged to the Rev. Thomas L. Jones, 35, of Atlanta, Ga. He has the job of finding ways to make religion a more relevant force in American life and leisure.

The Rev. Mr. Jones is secretary of a new agency of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., which recently held its general assembly at Montreat. The agency, the division of education and research for the Board of Church Extension, is developing a series of experimental programs.

These include a biracial and bilingual church in Miami, Fla., placing ministers in a Washington high-rise apartment, a South Carolina trailer court and voluntary, full-time workers, including college students and retired persons — a kind of church job corps.

"This is really an attempt to make the Christian faith relevant in today's world," the Rev. Mr. Jones said. "But it is not an attempt to destroy the institutional church. We will try to find new structures to relate to today's world."

Experimental Ministers

The Rev. Mr. Jones, was associate pastor of a Miami church before taking the job with the new denomination agency in January. The Church Board of Extension has approved spending $252,500 this year for 24 experimental ministers, as they are called.

One of the programs already under way is an effort to rebuild a church in a Miami neighborhood that has changed from predominantly white to predominantly Negro. The white membership of the church dissolved in 1964 and the building reverted to the denomination.

EASTERN ORTHODOX GREEK, 3338 starting over," said the Rev. Mr. Jones.

Biracial Church
About 75 persons are working to build a new church that will serve Negroes, whites and Spanish-speaking residents. The minister, a Negro, has a Cuban refugee for an interpreter during the services.

"We are learning a lot about bridging the gap between racial and lingual lines," the minister said. "It is proving that the love of God is more powerful than any other factory."

At St. Petersburg, Fla., a white congregation in a transitional neighborhood is taking part in an experiment to learn how the predominantly white church can minister to the community.

Establish Dialogue

"The purpose is to establish dialogue across racial lines," the Rev. Mr. Jones said. "Everything that happened racially has been on the basis of pressure in the past. If the Church has a role, it is to change ideas. That means you have to have eye-to-eye contact."

In Mobile, Ala., another experiment will seek to determine how separate Negro and white churches can work together.

A program in Houston, Tex., will experiment in recruiting volunteer workers in Grundy, an Appalachian town, in seeking ways of relating the Church to the economic opportunity program.

A minister will be placed in a high-rise apartment in Washington to learn by trial and error how to carry the Church to apartment dwellers. And at Lake Murray, S.C., near Columbia, a minister will experiment in reaching vacationers. A trailer court ministry will be tried at Charleston, S.C.

"We want to determine how the Church ministers to people who don't put their roots down," the Rev. Mr. Jones said. Another experiment will aim at imaginative newspaper and television advertisements.

These experiments, he said, result from the revolution of society and they gain impetus from the accompanying unrest and uncertainty that makes old methods and approaches unsatisfactory.

"The Church," he said, "has to get out of an island of isolation and communicate."

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Captain James J. Romer was a man who was fundamentally dissatisfied. He felt that anyone satisfied with his lot in life no longer is making a contribution to society.

As a member of the United States Air Force in Panama, Romer spent every spare moment on civic action in Central America. A devout Roman Catholic, his one aim in life was Christian service to others. On one of his many visits to a remote village in a rugged mountain area, Jim Romer died in a plane crash. Over 200 villagers in that Latin country mourned the death of a friend, for they had benefited spiritually and materially from his visits. He had taught sanitation, showed them how to dig wells and use concrete. He had made firm friends for the United States.

On the new Health Center of Vera Cruz there is a plaque with his name and rank in memory of his participation in that work.

There are many "James Romers" around the world who have and will pay the supreme price for trying to make a better world for the love of God and mankind. (AP Wirephotos)

Assembly Studies Affect of Words

Communications Revolution Said To Cause Robots, Informed People

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The static nowadays is thick and heavy. Claims and counter-claims, information and misinformation, words, sounds and pictures. They flood the modern scene.

A "communications revolution" has burst on the world, say religious scholars and technological experts.

It can create either a "society of informed, thoughtful citizens" or a "mass of robots," said the Rev. Dr. Roger L. Shinn, a Protestant theologian of Union Seminary.

Tempting Illusions
The examination of the swelling communications output and its impact came at the first North American Assembly of the World Association of Christian Broadcasting.

Dr. Gerhart D. Wiebe, of Boston University, said present technological advances offer "easy and tempting" illusions that the truth can be disseminated handily around the globe.

However, he added, the success of the broadcasting media "in motivating behavior in the marketplace" does not insure "comparable success in bringing about international understanding, cultural refinement and spiritual enlightenment."

Intellectual Inertia
One obstacle is "intellectual inertia," he said, adding: "By and large, people with freedom to choose among media messages seek gratification of felt needs, release from taboos, entertainment, diversion and confirmation of existing knowledge and belief."

And the miscellaneous selection from which to pick is varied and voluminous. It demands alert, critical judgment "to filter out the valuable" from the dross, Dr. Shinn said.

The tide of facts, opinions and impressions comes not only from the electronic eye of television and throbbing radios, but also from the presses, the paperbacks, the clacking teletypes, the stuffed mailboxes and ubiquitous billboards.

"Our world, saturated with communications, may perish for loss of communication," Dr. Shinn said. "It is a world smothered in words, hungry for a meaningful word."

Possibilities now exist, he said, both for "educating people to maturity and for propagandizing them into perpetual adolescence."

The association, holding its first meeting in this country, was organized in Nairobi, Kenya, in 1963. It includes representatives of 18 Protestant denominations, and of the National and World Councils of Churches.

No Substitutes
With all the deluge of words and images now pouring into homes and elsewhere, Dr. Wiebe said, basic learning must still depend chiefly on "face-to-face relationships" — in classrooms, churches and homes.

"Those committed to the extension of an ideology, a way of life, a philosophy, a religion would do well to remember that though the media can aid, a way of life is communicated primarily in the living of it," he said.

"No social invention has duplicated the meanings of shared problem-solving. No technology has displaced the power of truly shared concern. And no teacher requires first of all that one give has exceeded the insight of the of himself."

Inter-Faith Dialogue Series Starts Sunday

KAUKAUNA — An inter-faith dialogue series with the Rev. Robert Edwards, pastor of the Methodist Church, and the Rev. S. A. Borusky, pastor of St. Aloysius Catholic Church, will get underway at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the commons at Kaukauna High School.

A 4-session series is planned on St. Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians. Sessions will be held May 8, 22 and 29 in addition to Sunday's talk. Each will be about one and one-half hour in length and feature a 30-minute presentation, a 10-minute clarification by the moderator, a 10-minute break and a 40-minute question period.

The Rev. Mr. Edwards will speak on "Historical Settings of the Epistle" Sunday and on "The Church in Mission" at the May 22 session. The Rev. Mr. Borusky will speak on "Catholic Concept of the Church" on May 8 and "Freedom and the Christian Conscience" at the May 29 meeting. The affair is open to the public without charge.

Methodist Unit to Hear Report on Building

KAUKAUNA — R. W. Surplice, Green Bay, architect in charge of designing a new church, will give a report on the building project at a Visitation Dinner of the Methodist Church at 12:30 p.m. Sunday in Fellowship Hall.

The commission will present a 1966-67 budget for consideration. One to whom we all defer in shared concern. And no teacher requires first of all that one give has exceeded the insight of the of himself."

Appleton Asks Wolf Planners For Advice on Water Supply

The City of Appleton has asked the Wolf River Basin call on state and federal Regional Planning Commission technicians to give their advice to assist the city in presenting a plan where the city should go for a public forum on the city's future water supply. Mayor George Buckley this week asked Gordon A. Bubolz, planning for the Winnebago months.

project, which was adopted by the council last year, be held up until after the open forum. Bubolz said the commission will contact various technicians to participate in a panel in which the problem of Appleton's future water supply can be studied from all angles. He hopes the forum, to which Seymour Evangelical United Brethren Church, the Rev. Franklin J. Block, pastor, has announced.

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words often misused: Do not say, "Liberty is when all persons are equal." This is a very awkward way of defining the term "liberty." Much better to say, "Liberty is a state of society in which all persons are equal."

Often misspelled: Improvise; observe the "ise." Immortalize; "ize."

Synonyms: Perceptible, sensible, palpable, tangible, appreciable, ponderable.

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Today's word: algid; cold; chilly. (Pronounce al-jid, accent first syllable). "In the mountain regions, the days are warm, but the nights are algid."

Harry reached the finish line after having raced $\frac{1}{4}$ of the remaining distance plus $\frac{1}{8}$ mile. How long was this race course?

Answer

The race was 3 miles long. Tom covered $\frac{1}{2}$ plus $\frac{1}{8}$, or $\frac{5}{8}$ miles; Dick ran $\frac{1}{4}$ plus $\frac{1}{8}$, or $\frac{3}{8}$ mile; and Harry ran $\frac{1}{12}$ plus $\frac{1}{8}$, or $\frac{5}{24}$ mile.

BY CAPPY DICK

If you save all the cancelled stamps that come to your house on pieces of mail, you will soon have enough to use in preparing a special mat around a photo of a member of your family, your favorite movie star, or your favorite athlete. The adjoining illustration shows what can be accomplished.

Postage stamps are easy to remove from old, discarded envelopes if you simply cut off the corner of the envelope that bears the stamp and place it in a pan or bowl of water. Within a half hour or less, the glue holding the stamp in place will have dissolved and you can easily slide it from the envelope paper.

If you place the stamp between two pieces of clean blotter or plain white paper, it will dry flat and may easily be used in the picture-framing project.

When you have enough stamps to cover the mat surrounding the photo, proceed to paste or glue them in place. Do this very neatly. For the best effect, mix the colors.

Shoppers Must be Wooed

The time for public dispute over plans for the future development of College Avenue is passed. The critical importance of proceeding immediately with the vast amount of engineering work which must be done before construction can begin outweighs any other consideration at this time. The council has made the decision to proceed with the design worked out by its planning consultants after years of study and discussion, and that decision must stand.

The merchants from the west end of College Avenue who plan to petition the council to reconsider its action may sincerely feel they are doing a service for the individual merchants in that area, but if they proceed with their protest they are doing a disservice to the community as a whole.

The suggestions they offered city officials for a wider avenue, no pedestrian crossings, less sidewalk area and angle parking are based on the theory that a store's shopping potential is limited to the number of cars which can park immediately in front of the store. Such a plan would offer an extremely limited future potential for the city's downtown retail area.

The plan adopted by the city on the other hand is pedestrian oriented. It emphasizes easy access by automobile to off-street parking areas in the downtown area and every possible assist to the pedestrian in proceeding from those parking areas to the various retail outlets the shopper wishes to visit. It envisions the Appleton shopping district making a bid for customers from a large and prosperous area surrounding this community, a bid which must be competitive with those of Green Bay or Manitowoc or Oshkosh.

In short it is a plan with vision for the future rather than being content with what we have had in the past.

Admittedly such a plan will change the shopping pattern with respect to certain individual merchants downtown. Those merchants who take advantage of the increased shopper potential by modernizing their facilities and tying in with the new concept will benefit greatly. Those who do not will suffer.

But there is no more obvious truism in business today than that you cannot stay where you are. Today's shopper is highly mobile. She will go where she is pampered and cajoled. The atmosphere is important along with accessibility and parking facilities. The city, and the merchant, who woos her will prosper.

Unfinished Safety Business

Congressional hearings and discussions within the industry in recent weeks have placed new emphasis on the questions of whether automobiles can be made safer to ride in and of how safety regulations for this field should be administered, either through governmental directive or cooperative planning by the car makers.

This is as it should be, for there is ample agreement from both the industry and its critics that corrective measures are called for and there has been a demonstration of public opinion that some action must be taken. But in the concentration on the topic of automobile safety, there should not be an overlooking of the fact that the manufacture of safer cars is but one component in the struggle to reduce the slaughter on the nation's highways.

Gov. Warren Knowles recently reminded us—and the legislature—of the unfinished assignment on safety which is before the May session.

The legislature last year, in something of a compromise, provided funds for a modest increase in the state traffic patrol, for correcting safety hazards on state highways, and for a program of instruction for problem drivers. The governor calls for action on the remainder of his recommendations, compulsory car inspections, compulsory driver education for all those under 18 years of age, and for an implied consent law requiring all drivers to agree to tests for drunken driving as a condition for having a driver's license.

While about 20 states now have some form of implied consent laws, legislation in this field is the most controversial. The legislature last year balked at including such a law in the compromise safety package which was sent to the governor.

The argument against such a law is that it, in effect, is a violation of a constitutional right not to have to give testimony against yourself in a criminal case. The opposite view is that a driver's license is a privilege granted by the state subject to conditions set by the state when the license is granted.

It is understandably a difficult question for legislators to make a decision, particularly if there is an absence of guidance from the public. The few minutes needed for voters to send a letter to their representative with their opinion on this vital question would be well spent.

Mass Disrespect for Laws

The episodes of vandalism and other violence by some cyclists who attended a rally in this area a couple of weeks ago have contributed to the poor public image of cyclists in general. Already one proposed series of races has been cancelled. But beyond the unfair stigmatizing of all cyclists as ruffians, the incidents indicate the spread of a problem that has been plaguing our large cities. What can be done about mass violations of law and especially those which include senseless violence?

In our larger cities, displays at boat and automobile shows cost exhibitors hundreds of thousands of dollars in damage and thievery. In the slum areas of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Washington store fronts must be protected by grills night and day. Anything is fair game to the thief and the vandal. And the violence does not stop with inanimate objects. Parks, subways, alleys, even sidewalks near the White House are no longer safe. Vigilante groups have been organized in large apartment buildings to patrol the stairways and answer calls for help. Sales of whistles, purse sirens and small defensive weapons for women who must return home after dark have climbed.

In areas where systems of law and order prevail in our civilized countries, it is not the size or severity of the police force which is overwhelmingly important. To be successful, laws must be respected by the majority of the population. When a revolt against laws breaks out, the damage is tremendous as it has been in the Watts section of Los Angeles and in less widespread riots in other cities. When large numbers violate laws as a senseless mob, there is little an outnumbered police force can do other than what they did in the cases of the cyclists who had apparently done extensive damage to two taverns. They escorted them to the county line and sent them on their way.

In comparison with most Western European nations, the United States has always been a lawless land. The incidence of violent crime has been higher. But the concern today is that it is growing rather than abating. And while effective international law must in great part await the day when nations themselves are not ruffians, we would hope that the same need not be true within the United States. What is the cause of this disrespect, this contempt for laws and the forces of law and order, especially among young Americans today?

There have been charges that the intentional breaking of laws involving racial segregation and discrimination have contributed heavily to this wider disrespect for all laws. Certainly the constant flaunting of statutes is not recommended as a way to build respect for laws. But it appears more likely that the inequities of some laws themselves are to blame. As several church groups have pointed out, there is a vast difference between consciously breaking what one feels to be an unjust law with the intent to pay the legal penalty, and purposely evading a law for one's profit. Perhaps even more serious as far as contributing to the general lowering morality is the calculated use of laws for one's personal advancement.

Unfortunately the examples of this come from some high places. The Bobby Baker case, the current investigation of vast amounts of money going tax free to elected officials, the influence peddling in national and state capitals, the sex scandals in Canada and Great Britain, the disgraceful inequities of the Selective Service Act all contribute to the impression that success can be bought and that the clever individual is above the law.

None of this realization that our young people develop their cynicism from the examples of their elders gives a direct answer on how to prevent incidents like that involving the cyclists. But we should realize that this was not an isolated episode. There have been more cases of vandalism in our public buildings, more drinking, fake I.D. cards, illegitimacies, irresponsibility among young people. The Sheboygan Bratwurst Day turned into a drunken shambles, the arrests at the Elkhart Lake sports car rallies are not just examples of the high spirits of youth. They represent a something for nothing philosophy and a willingness to exploit others.

One thing is certain. The problems cannot be escorted to village, town, city, county or state borders and sent away. If the examples of the rest of the country are accurate criteria, they are going to grow.

The 2,000-mile Appalachian Trail has been popular with hikers and campers for 30 years. Now the Interior Department proposes 9 more trails, making a 20,175-mile system covering historic and scenic areas of the nation. In this way, it says, Americans could "develop an intimacy with the wealth and splendor of America's outdoor world."

Here's The Plan

Trail	Miles	Trail	Miles
Appalachian	2,000	North Country	3,200
Chisholm	700	Oregon	2,000
Continental Divide	3,100	Pacific Crest	2,350
Lewis and Clark	4,600	Potomac Heritage	825
Natchez Trace	600	Santa Fe	800

Nationwide System of Scenic Trails Is One of Great Society's Dreams

BY W. JOYNES MACFARLAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the dreams of President Johnson's "Great Society" is to blaze scenic trails the people may follow through vast areas of America the Beautiful.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall is pushing the idea, saying the general plan is to take the Appalachian Trail as a model "and spread it at large over the country."

The Appalachian Trail, running 2,000 miles from Maine to Georgia, has been popular for almost 30 years. It now draws an estimated 100,000 hikers a year, seekers after beauty and solitude.

President Johnson early this year asked Congress "to extend federal support to the Appalachian Trail, and to encourage the development of hiking trails accessible to the people throughout the country."

NATIONWIDE SYSTEM
Accordingly, Secretary Udall drew up and presented to Congress an administration bill to establish a nationwide system of scenic trails, with the Appalachian Trail to be the first of several in the new federal scheme of things.

Thousands of volunteers have contributed over the years to construction and maintenance of the Appalachian Trail.

With the proposed legislation, the Interior Department seeks the right to acquire land, rights of way and scenic easements where necessary to preserve the natural setting of the trails. It could also construct sections of trail, build shelters, markers and other facilities, and regulate the use of the trails.

Nine trails were listed by Udall for study as potential national projects, in addition to the Appalachian. They are: Chisholm Trail, extending from San Antonio, Tex., 700 miles northward through Oklahoma to Abilene, Kansas.

Continental Divide Trail, 3,100 miles from the Mexican border in southwestern New Mexico to the Canadian border in Glacier National Park.

Lewis and Clark Trail, 4,600 miles from St. Louis to the Pacific Ocean in Oregon, following both the outbound and inbound routes of the Lewis and Clark expedition in 1804-1806.

Natchez Trace, from Nashville, Tenn., 600 miles to Natchez, Miss.

NORTH COUNTRY
North Country Trail, from the Appalachian Trail in Vermont 3,200 miles through New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota to the Lewis and Clark Trail in North Dakota.

Oregon Trail, from Independence, Mo., 2,000 miles to near Fort Vancouver, Wash.

Pacific Crest Trail, 2,350 miles from the Mexican-California border along the mountain ranges of the West Coast states to the Canadian border near Lake Ross.

Potomac Heritage Trail, from the mouth of the Potomac river 825 miles to the Potomac's sources in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, including the 170-mile Chesapeake and Ohio canal towpath.

Santa Fe Trail, from Independence, Mo., 800 miles to Santa Fe, N. M.

"A nationwide system of trails," Udall said, "will open to all the opportunity to develop an intimacy with the wealth and splendor of America's outdoor world for a few hours at a time, or on one day jaunts, overnight treks, or expeditions lasting a week or more."

Udall called for states and local governments to create "what would amount to feeder trails into these national trails."

As a starter, the Interior Department estimated land acquisition costs along the Appalachian Trail would be approximately $4,665,000 and development costs approximately $2 million, the total to be spread over five years.

Appleton Mail Robber Convicted

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 28, 1866.

L. Strong, late of the Appleton Post Office, has just been convicted of opening and detaining letters, and sentenced to six months imprisonment.

The testimony was conclusive as to his guilt upon all counts in the indictment, but, at the suggestion of Judge Miller that he already had been punished considerably, the U.S. Attorney entered a nolle pro. as to the principal counts, and he was, therefore, convicted only for the small offense.

It would seem that the almost invariable detection of Post Office robbers would prevent others from following and drove a maroon colored automobile. As there are hundreds of motels in this area, she didn't leave us much to go on.

We have many, many friends in Appleton, having been members of the First Methodist Church, United Commercial Travelers and Auxiliary and I have been employed by Sears, Fox River Tractor and Wichmann Furniture Company.

As we have heard no more from our friends who failed to find us at home when they called, we fear that they may assume that we did not wish to welcome them, which is certainly not the case.

We would greatly appreciate an item in The Post-Crescent which might help us to hear from these people.

rare thing to have a year pass without some trial in the U.S. Court of such criminals.

Strong was but just sentenced when a fellow was arrested in Milwaukee for stealing a mail bag in that city, and the bag was filled with matter for Appleton! He had previously stolen three or four bags from the express wagon which conveyed the mail to cars and steamers.

Four Clintonville men elected directors of the Gateway Chapter, National Aeronautics Association, were James Smiley, Bernard Stieg, Lloyd Pinkowsky and G. F. Coursin. The Appleton Garvey brothers, Pat and Bud, were first and second place winners in the Outagamie County marbles championship held that day at Pierce Park. Champ Pat was 14 years old and runner-up Bud was 12. The sons of Mrs. Mary Garvey were to compete in the district meet in Fond du Lac. Claude Kohl and Vernon Roberts were the recreation leaders in charge of the county competition.

Champions that season of the Air Corps League in Appleton were Dorothy Wul-terkens, Sylvia Godschalx, Betty Leinwander, Dorothy Davis and Gerrie LaBore.

Barbara Larson, Neenah High School junior, was awarded a trip to the United Nations as winner of the Bettina Theta Rho Girls Club competition. A past president of the Bettina Club, Barbara was judged the winner of the trip on the basis of her church, school and club activities and her essay titled "What the U.N. Means to Me." The tour also included a visit to historic sites in the East.

Named delegates to Boys State at Ripon the coming summer were William Herminoth and David Shier from Shiocton High School. Faculty members made the choices on the basis of leadership, scholarship and personality. Alternates were Craig Van Patten and Ralph Van Horn.

Financial Crisis for Local Schools Means More Federal Grants

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The speech of William C. Kahl at a Milwaukee forum last week about the impending financing crisis in the local schools bore all the signs of a premature inauguration address of the man who will take over the direction of the State Department of Public Instruction in about two months.

Wyngaard

By tradition the state superintendent of public instruction is the chief advocate of the local school system in the court of last resort for those schools—which is the State Legislature. He is already accustomed to the role, having acted with considerable effectiveness during recent years as the principal legislative spokesman for Supl. Angus Rothwell, who is now taking on the stiff challenge of the staff directorship of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education.

Kahl has also served as his department's officer. There is perhaps no man in Wisconsin who is more expertly informed on local school budgets, local tax rates, local taxing prospects, and the fiscal liability of the huge local educational program during the next decade or more. As an expert, he is entitled to respectful attention for his views, and he will get it.

THE CHOICES

Kahl's thesis is that the local property tax, traditional buttress of the local schools, will sooner or later reach the limit of acceptability. Whether that is academically defensible, in a time of historically high levies in every direction, may be open to debate. While the state aid formula has a built-in mechanism for equalizing local school taxes to some degree, there remains a considerable range of local tax liability, nevertheless, Kahl did not mention it, but it may be presumed that the subsidy formula can be adjusted further, so as to make the local tax system somewhat more productive considering the state as a whole by reducing the taxing disparity among districts.

But in a political test the local property tax is plainly reaching a ceiling, in part because it is the only important tax levy remaining that the average person pays in a lump sum and accordingly is comparatively more painful. In virtually every locality, moreover, the taxpayer in the ranks knows that it is the school's share of the property tax budget that makes his own bill so high.

The state superintendent designate offered a number of alternatives for finding more local school money. Local districts could be given other local taxing powers, he suggested. Yet it is not easy to surmise what those auxiliary local sources might be. Surely they would not be of significant weight. Schools might be organized more efficiently, Kahl says. But after 20 years of significant reorganization achievement, it is not likely that there is much juice left in that orange.

AID DOLLARS

The most likely alternatives to a deterioration of the educational effort are additional infusions of state and federal aid.

Those schoolmen who are aware of the tender and doubtful state financial picture incline to believe that for the next few years, at least, federal dollars will be the most significant in resolving their budget dilemma. The spectre of federal control which once generated widespread opposition to Washington involvement in the local school programs appears to have disappeared, for all practical purposes, perhaps because the fear of prohibitive local taxation has outweighed the reservations about federal interference. There is also the spreading conviction that resistance to federal involvement is too expensive a principle to uphold. The money surely would be claimed by the less fastidious elsewhere and the national government appears determined to share even more generously in virtually all of the traditional responsibilities of the states and their creature localities.

Believes All City Bonding Should Go to Referendum

Editor, Post-Crescent.

One procedure that the city council ought to follow is that all expenditures that require bonding the city that these bond issues be placed before a referendum.

We have seen enough of the poor planning, building the Einstein School in an open field without even a right of way to start the school. Then the city had the extra costs of roads and sidewalks. This appears to be the same problem of the east side high for now streets are being put in off of Telulah Ave. The school authorities have the projection of school population from kindergarten on, yet we are always pressured the last minute on getting a school house built. The writer attended the last meeting of the special school committee and what a mess that was. I firmly believe that all committee meetings ought to be taped and published in legal city notices. One gentleman made the statement that if this east side issue was brought to a vote he was willing to place a $10 bill on the table that the public would vote it down.

Eric Severeid had a discussion on planners and we have a good example at Appleton. Take the street storm sewer projects. State Street dug up twice and South Lawe from College to Alton dug up two years a running. Yet no one gives an answer as to why.

So the need in Appleton is that all bond issues from now on be placed on a referendum. Madison has three issues in their general election, one for sewers, one for street repair and one a school house. Milwaukee also had the school bond issue planned for 5 years ahead. All cities follow this procedure, why not at Appleton? These cities also use the power of condemnation for property needs, why not here? Compare the prices paid to the assessed values of some of these purchases that have been made in the past.

Oh! There are those that say this will cause delay. Is our planning that bad that we can't decide these bond issues at spring and fall elections. Even if we had to have a special election, we can well afford this seeing that the loss to the city to change the plans would have cost over $200,000. You can have a lot of special elections on that kind of money.

So, citizens, call your council and get the right to vote on these issues. It will also mean that the pencil will figure costs pretty close if the powers to be must get the voters approval. Will it be necessary to institute a referendum to get this right as a group did on the "no" vote?

South won the first trick in dummy and returned a club "automatically." It was the suit in which he expected to win most of his tricks, and he saw no reason to postpone its development.

East took the ace of clubs and led a heart to set up his partner's suit. South could finesse or not, as he pleased. The outcome would be the same. He needed the rest of his nine tricks without losing the lead again.

South couldn't make nine tricks without getting a second diamond, so he tried the diamond finesse. West won and took his hearts, and that was the end for South.

Should Count
If South counts his tricks he sees that he needs an extra diamond as well as the clubs. If he thinks a bit more he sees that he cannot go down if he plays diamonds before clubs.

Suppose declarer tries the diamond finesse at the second trick. West wins and cannot afford to lead a heart. His best shift is to spades, and South takes the ace. Now South leads clubs to knock out the ace.

South is sure to win a spade, two hearts, two diamonds and four clubs. Nine tricks are enough for the game.

The important principle is to give up the first trick to the player who can do you no harm. You will still be safe when you give up your second trick.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

DO SCIENTISTS MAKE GOOD ADMINISTRATORS? YES ☐ NO ☐

No, not necessarily. In a college or in industry, a man may be made head of a department because of the outstanding research that he has done. Actually, he may be a poor choice. The administrator must deal with budgets and with people. He must keep things moving, and thereby give up much of his freedom to be creative. Some scientists find that administrative responsibilities prevent them from doing what they most enjoy, and they go back to their straight research or teaching, even at a lower salary.

Sex education is for children. True — False —
False. Adults are the ones who are most in need of sex education today. They need sex education to do a good job of guiding their children's lives, to find fulfillment in their own marriages, to be well-informed as citizens about a vital part of today's world, and to develop more open and satisfying communication with members of the younger generation. Young people are articulate about their sex interests. It is time that adults, too, became more comfortable in considering the sex side of life.

Domestic help solves the working mother's problem. True — False —
False. Only 20 per cent of the working mothers in a recent survey had either full- or part-time help. Other working mothers are assisted at home by their husbands and children. They manage to get most of the important things done by themselves. They use more convenience foods and commercial services, such as dry cleaning, laundry and beauty parlor. Even then, the working mother has a real problem finding time for everything expected of her.

Catholics in Poland Plan Celebration
The 750th anniversary of Czeslawa probably will still be up on Tuesday.
While church officials expect no major confrontation with the government, they have reported some minor harassment. A monastery official apologized that the program was typewritten and added with smile, "Don't ask me why it was not printed." This was taken to mean it could not be cleared by the government censor.

Black Madonna
Main event of the religious celebration will be the carrying of the black Madonna image around the ramparts of the monastery by bishops, clergy and representatives of the predominantly Catholic Polish population.
The Madonna, a 600-year-old dark-shaded painting by an unknown Italian artist, was declared in 1951 to be the queen of Poland.
During the procession, Polish archbishops will carry it from the first to the second station of the cross. In what could be interpreted by the government as a political gesture, bishops from the lands transferred from Germany to Poland will bear the Madonna from the second to the third stations of the cross.

Man's Parent-Centered Life Won't Change After 20 Years

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is 56 years old and he still calls his mother mommy and his father poppy. We have a teen-age daughter whom he ignores. I should add that he doesn't pay much attention to me, either. His whole life is wrapped up in his parents. He must see them every single day.

After 20 years I find myself resenting this mommy and poppy business. When we were married I thought he would outgrow it, but he seems to be getting more childish as time goes by.

Am I foolish to let this bother me? I will follow your advice — Migraine Martha.
Dear Migraine: Yes, you are foolish to let this bother you. It's a useless waste of energy. You are going to hear "mommy" and "poppy" as long as his parents live, so get used to it already.

How sad that your husband has no interest in his daughter! If she is in her teens and he ignores her, that won't change, either — until mommy and poppy are gone. Then he'll probably look to her for affection, but it will be too late.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several weeks ago a friend of ours invited my husband and me and four other couples to a wild duck dinner. In these parts a wild duck dinner is something very special. It isn't like "Come over with the kids and we'll cook hot dogs on the grill."

Three days after the friend invited us she telephoned to say that she and her husband had been invited to a very elegant party by some socially prominent people, so she was canceling her dinner. She was sure we would understand.

I was shocked. My mother would not have permitted me to pull a stunt like that when I was eight years old. The other women who had been uninvited were also offended. Some of the men didn't think it was so bad. What is your opinion? — Mollie.

Dear Mollie: It seems clear your friend receives so few invitations that she simply couldn't bear to pass one up. At the rate she's going she's going to receive even fewer.

She treated you and the others in a shoddy manner and I hope you will tell her so to her face instead of boiling privately.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: please inform the cello player's wife that her husband is going through the male menopause and that she is having an easier time of it than I had.

When my husband reached the foolish fifties he got himself a two-legged cello and they made beautiful music together. I sat home night after night taking care of his sick mother.

Too bad some wives don't realize that men go through a period when they are not quite themselves. I hope the wife who wrote will give her husband a lot of love and understanding. I did, and it paid off. My husband appreciates me more than ever for standing by and patiently waiting for him to get through making a jackass out of himself. — R.C.

Dear R.C.: Sound advice to women whose husbands take to fiddling around in the evening of their lives. Thanks for writing.

Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

War Declaration Idea Opposed by Pentagon

since the Constitution was adopted, there have been at least 125 instances in which the President, without Congressional authority and in the absence of a declaration of war, has ordered the armed forces to take actions or to maintain positions abroad," the Pentagon said.

But in the case in Viet Nam, the report concluded, Johnson had an expression on Congressional intent — the joint resolution of Aug. 10, 1964, "explicitly approving all necessary steps, including the use of armed force, in the defense of freedom in Southeast Asia."

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and other administration critics have contended that even with the resolution the United States is waging an unconstitutional war in Viet Nam. A move to repeal the resolution, led by Morse, was overwhelmingly defeated in the Senate earlier this year.

The repeated attacks by U.S. planes have torn up stretches of roads, knocked out bridges and destroyed trucks in North Viet Nam, but the Communists have pushed ahead with their effort to keep open their infiltration routes into the South.

It is now estimated by U.S. officials here that for the last several months at least 5,500 North Vietnamese have moved each month to the South. The tempo is increasing and conceivably could reach 7,000 this month, the officials say.

Six months ago it was estimated that 4,500 men were moving North to South each month. U.S. military officials say they are reasonably certain that since Jan. 1 more than 20,000 infiltrators have entered South Viet Nam.

There now are believed to be 90,000 North Vietnamese regulars or Viet Cong main-force troops in the country — comprising 2 North Vietnamese regimental forces and 15 Viet Cong regiments. Together with guerrillas, political cadre and logistics personnel, it is believed that the Communist forces in South Viet Nam now number about 250,000.

Business 'Must Go On' During Planning

Redevelopment Authority Decides City Projects Should Not be Delayed

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — While the pace of federal governmental machinery may determine the speed of action on Menasha's bid for U.S. planning funds, the Redevelopment Authority has adopted a "business must go on" attitude, with a new municipal building heading the list.

Meeting with Jerry Pollak, Victor Gruen Associates Planning firm in the Elks Club, the Authority made it clear Friday

Menasha viewers will be able to see an example of a master planning effort prepared by Victor Gruen Associates, the same planning firm handling the city's comprehensive plan, on a Channel 5 television "special" this evening at 6 o'clock. The half-hour program will be a film report of a presentation in Green Bay earlier this week by Jerry Pollak, of the "GREGBY" downtown plan for that city. Pollak is also working with Menasha redevelopment officials.

Mayor Kenneth Holmes attended the session and lifted his hand with the others when Mowry Smith Jr., honorary co-chairman of the Authority asked to see how many of those

Car Leaves Road, Rolls Over in Vinland

OSHKOSH — Robert J. Beck, 16, 1064 N. Main St., Oshkosh, received head and facial injuries when the car which he was driving went off Brooks Road west of County Trunk T in the Town of Vinland at 11:02 p.m. Friday and rolled over in the ditch. He was alone in the car.

Winnebago County police said the car traveled 213 feet after leaving the road on the north side, striking the ditch embankment and rolling over. He was taken in the Moore Ambulance to Mercy Hospital.

present felt the municipal building was still a top-priority need.

The matter will come before the common council Monday night for informal committee of the whole action, and Tuesday for formal consideration.

Mayor Holmes revealed to the MRA that real estate firms involved in holding property in the Chute-Tayco-Main Street triangle site have arranged a 30-day extension on the city's offers to buy eight private lots.

The offers were originally set to expire Sunday on the eight lots. Expiration would mean the city would forfeit the $800 it put up to secure the agreements. The mayor requested the extensions, permitting the council either to vote to purchase the property or else let the purchase options lapse.

There was lengthy discussion Friday of the possibility that some MRA action might have to wait until federal funds are approved and the master plan is begun.

Developments Listed

MRA Chairman Ralph McClone ticked off a list of possible developments that might require action at any time, including the possibility that new business or industries might show interest in locating here. He asked Pollak if they would have to be held off until the plan was begun, pointing out delay might discourage them.

Pollak replied, "You have got to encourage business. MRA member Edward Zeininger told the group, "Business must go on." It would be impossible in any event to plan every step in advance, he said.

Others in the group agreed. Pollak also pointed out it would be unnecessary to delay all aspects of preparation while waiting for the federal go-ahead. As was pointed out when MRA and state officials met in Madison Wednesday, the approval of the federal two-thirds of the planning study costs might take until September, rather than coming by July as had been previously expected, depending on how soon Congress appropriates funds.

Interim Work

Pollak said in the interim his firm could work for the city as a consultant on certain projects, on a "cost-plus" basis. But work directly on the master plan cannot legally be begun until approval comes from Washington if there is to be federal aid, he pointed out.

Pollak said he planned to prepare a letter to the Chicago office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development to accompany the city's application, which is slated to be sent next week to Chicago by state officials overseeing the project.

He also advised continual contacts with Washington and Chicago while the application is being processed.

The city should appoint a coordinator to handle correspondence between the city, state and federal agencies involved, he added. Public Works Director Robert Poss has coordinated.

Girl Leaves Store With 72 Birthstone Rings Valued at $144

NEENAH — A common tactic to combat shoplifting is for manufacturers to attach small items to cards for display in stores.

Friday, a junior high school girl admitted to police she had walked out of the J.C. Penny store at Fox Point Shopping Center with a full card of 72 birthstone rings.

At $2 each for the rings, the card was valued at $144. The case is in the hands of juvenile authorities.

minated efforts of this nature up to this point.

Pollak was also to meet later in the afternoon to discuss details of the MRA effort to find local donors, chiefly among business and industry, to provide the city's one-third share of the planning costs. Of the total estimated figure of $53,500, the MRA has promised to raise the local share, roughly $18,000.

Building Question

Considerable discussion revolved about the municipal building question. Holmes reminded the group he had stated toward the end of his election campaign that he favored putting a choice of three sites before the voters.

He had listed these as the Racine Street, Park site, the Chute-Tayco-Main Street triangle that was named in the referendum question, and another site that might be suggested by a planner. This differed from an initial stand flatly favoring the Racine Street Site.

Ald Walter Rimmel told the meeting he believed the issue should be decided quickly. He said that, while he was unable to speak for all councilmen, he believed they generally shared his belief.

Insurance Body Resists Stand on Rate Exposure

Companies Expected to Oppose Proposed Law Requiring Public Rate Applications

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Legislative Council's special committee on state insurance law revision Thursday refused to take a stand on a bill requiring the state insurance department to make public all insurance company applications for rate increases.

The bill, drafted by the state insurance department at the request of its commissioner, Seymour, driver of one car, former Marinette assemblyman with a laceration on the right side of his head, broken ribs, a broken denture and chest and back injuries, and his granddaughter, Julie Knox, 12, route 2, Neenah, with a fractured left wrist, back and neck injuries and lacerations.

The study committee, conducting a three year investigation of insurance regulatory practices and laws, said that a stand on full disclosure would be "premature."

Existing Law Under existing law, the information contained in a company's request to increase rates becomes public at the time of a rate increase — if one is granted. Then, public hearings, reviewing such information and the actions of the insurance commissioner, can be held if requested by the public. If a rate increase is refused, the applicant company may also request a public hearing.

Company spokesmen Thursday contended that such disclosure would allow competing insurance firms to gain financial information on business practices without incurring the accounting costs, would encourage policy holders to switch firms just before rate increases, and has not proven practical in other states where attempted.

States that have made such changes in insurance laws "have found themselves conducting circuses, not hearings," according to Kirby Hendee, Stevens Point. Hendee spoke on behalf of his employers, the open Monday at the recreation Sentry Insurance Company of office and every effort will be made to assign children to companies of the Wisconsin Insurance Alliance.

Issues Warning "You will make a serious mistake by pulling out one vital by the Red Cross, have certified piece of the law and changing it instructors and will be held at this time, without really daily for three sessions. All knowing what it is going to do classes are held prior to after to the rest of the law," Hendee noon swim hours. Special classes are also planned for rural residents.

Such action would tend to depress insurance rates due to publicity in the rate-making process, Hendee continued. "To the extent that the commission is susceptible to those pressures, the rates will be held down," whether justifiable or not, he said.
